

ENHANCED PHARMACOKINETIC PROFILE OF INTRADERMALLY DELIVERED SUBSTANCES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Sub
BA

A method for administration of a substance into the dermis of a mammal is disclosed. The method involves administration into the dermis by injection which results in improved systemic absorption relative to that obtained upon subcutaneous administration of the substance. The substance administered may be a growth hormone, a low molecular weight heparin or a dopamine receptor agonist.

20030303 10:00:00